

Sterling Unified School District #376
Acceptable Use of Computing Resources Policy

USD #376 provides computing resources to support the educational mission of the school district. All users share the responsibility for ensuring that these resources are used for their intended purpose. The privilege of using computing resources is dependent upon responsible use.

Security & Privacy

All USD #376 computer users share responsibility for maintaining the security and privacy of computer resources. Therefore, the following behaviors are prohibited:

- Use of individual accounts by anyone other than the specific individual to whom those accounts have been assigned
- Deleting or tampering with programs, installing programs, or otherwise modifying network files or programs without explicit authorization and instruction by administration
- Any attempts to subvert network security or damage computing resources

Privacy Disclaimer

- o Despite reasonable attempts to maintain the privacy of users' electronic information, USD #376 cannot guarantee that electronic information is private. Files, including e-mail, programs, and documents, are considered the property of USD #376 as long as they are stored on district equipment. Users will be allowed to copy their own files to floppy disks, provided copyright laws are adhered to.
- o System administrators retain the right to examine electronic information as needed to investigate violations of computing guidelines, perform necessary maintenance procedures, etc.

Legal Use of Computing Resources

All USD #376 users share responsibility to ensure the legal use of computing resources. Therefore, the following behaviors are prohibited:

- Copying, downloading or installing illegally obtained copyrighted software
- Violating copyright and licensing restrictions on any software

E-mail Use

When communicating via e-mail or other forms of computer-mediated communication, all USD #376 users are expected to act in a responsible manner. Therefore, the following irresponsible uses of e-mail and other forms of computer-mediated communication are prohibited:

- Use of sexually or racially offensive language
- Use of libelous or incendiary language
- Use of e-mail to harass or annoy others

- Wasteful communication such as chain letters or widespread broadcasting of messages to inappropriate online-discussion groups

Educational Use

All USD #376 computer users are responsible for ensuring that computing resources are used for their intended purpose of supporting education. Therefore, the following behaviors are prohibited.

- excessive use of computing resources for activities of minimal educational benefit, such as game playing, chatting and unnecessary printing
- use of computing resources to access, download or display pornography
- commercial, for-profit activities
- violating state or federal law
- harassing or violating the privacy of others
- gaining unauthorized access to computing or information resources
- disrupting the use of the network by others

Sterling USD #376 provides access to computing resources for staff and students in attendance at our facilities. Each user of these resources must conduct him/herself in a responsible manner and in accordance with our Acceptable Use Policy (attached).

It is possible for all users of computing resources in USD #376, including students, to access information that may be deemed objectionable and/or intended for adults. The school district has taken reasonable steps to ensure that computing resources will be used appropriately, and has invested in filtering equipment to prevent access to Internet sites that are considered objectionable. However, the security provided is not infallible and it is likely that a determined student could use computing resources in an inappropriate manner and/or access inappropriate sites on the Internet.

USD #376 believes that the benefits of the Internet to educators and students outweigh the disadvantages of access. However, it is ultimately the responsibility of parents/guardians to set and convey the standards that they believe their children should follow. USD #376 respects each family's right to decide whether to apply for Internet access.

APPLICATION FOR INTERNET ACCESS
STERLING UNIFIED SCHOOL DISTRICT #376

Computing resources, including Internet access in the Sterling school district are for authorized individuals only, and any unauthorized access to these resources is prohibited. Individuals are subject to having their activities monitored by school personnel while using these resources, and anyone using these resources expressly consents to such monitoring. Any individual using the computing resources in a manner deemed inappropriate by school officials will be subject to the termination or limitation of their computer account without warning.
